RAUVISIO brilliant Shines in Seattle

Seattle is not known for its sunshine. As one of the rainiest cities in the country, the weather can get gloomy. This is exactly why the REHAU RAUVISIO brilliant high gloss finish was used in a new townhouse project in Seattle, Washington.

The sleek high-gloss finish of RAUVISIO brilliant Bianco matched the customer's desire for sophisticated custom cabinets with a modern edge. When asked about choosing this REHAU surface, Ryan Schofield, owner of Seattle-based boutique home builder Aedifex, Inc., explained, "Because the kitchen is not exposed to a lot of sunlight, we wanted a clean bright look to help brighten the space up and reflect sunlight. This material also has a modern aesthetic which looks great."

With its sparkling, yet scratch-resistant surface, the white RAUVISIO brilliant Bianco enhances light on dreary Seattle days, while providing durability and longevity. Immediately, the brightness and cheer of the room is evident, and the high-gloss finish makes the kitchen feel spacious.

REHAU RAUVISIO brilliant not only impressed with its simplicity and style in the finished project; Schofield noted how much he and his crew enjoyed working with REHAU. "The unboxing was very easy. Other products take all day, but unboxing RAUVISIO only took an hour. My crew especially appreciated how easy it was to remove the protective coating," said Schofield.

The frameless cabinets were produced by Urban Cabinets NW of Woodinville, Washington. From start to finish, REHAU exceeded expectations. Working in a tight space with little time, Schofield even managed to incorporate a custom spice cabinet using RAUVISIO brilliant, showing off REHAU's dynamic and detailed capabilities.

From the homeowners to the contractor and the installation crew, REHAU RAUVISIO brilliant Bianco provided complete satisfaction with its simplicity, high quality and beautiful aesthetics. It is clear that REHAU cabinet doors are capable of transforming any home and this Seattle house is another testament to their quality and elegance.
